

Website Terms & Conditions, Privacy, Cookies and Accessibility

By using the St John's Seaham (StJS) website you are agreeing to its use under the following terms and conditions.

Below you will find legal information about our website, including copyright, disclaimer, cookies and privacy policies.

Copyright

Copyright of StJS website content covers design, text, graphics, images and other materials – and this remains at all time the copyright of StJS. The site is based in a Wordpress framework with a commercial theme (developed by Genesis/Studio Press) applied with some modifications, and the source code etc. associated with that content remains the copyright of those associated third parties. StJS grant permission to electronically copy, and print to hard copy, information from this website only for use by the St John's and All Saints churches, Seaham Harbour and Dawdon Parish.

Content Modification

No changes, modifications or alterations may be made to materials obtained from this site without written consent from StJS. Materials from this site, covered under StJS copyright, cannot be re published or distributed in any format without written permission from StJS.

Disclaimer

StJS endeavours to make every effort to ensure that the information on this website is accurate and up-to-date. However, we accept no liability for any loss or inconvenience caused inaccuracies on this site.

The StJS website contains link to external site, but StJS accepts no responsibility validity/accuracy of the content on those sites, nor for the privacy practices of those other sites.

Privacy

This privacy statement details the privacy practices for the StJS website.

StJS is committed to ensuring that your privacy is protected. If we request certain information from you by which you can be identified when using this website, then it will only be used under the terms of this privacy statement.

StJS reserves the right to modify these terms as and when necessary. This policy is effective from 01/06/2015.

Cookies

A cookie is a small file which is placed on your computer's hard drive. Cookies can help analyse web traffic and/or allow specific functionality on the site and cookies can also allow web applications to respond to you as an individual by gathering and remembering information about your preferences. Overall, cookies help us to provide you with a better website experience by enabling us to monitor which pages you find most and least useful. A cookie does not give us access to your computer or any personal information about you that you have not chosen to share with us. You can choose to accept or decline cookies, although by default most web browsers automatically accept them. However you can usually modify your browser setting it to decline cookies if you choose to, but this may stop you from taking full advantage of the website content/functionality. Information about how to disable cookies can be found here: <http://www.allaboutcookies.org/manage-cookies/>

StJS uses traffic logging cookies to monitor which pages are being visited and this helps us analyse data about webpage use and improve our website to fit in better with our visitor's requirements/preferences. We only use this information for statistical analysis purposes and then the data is deleted. We do not, and will not pass on these details to third parties or use them for any other purposes without your permission to do so.

If any changes are made to our privacy policy, these changes will be detailed in this document.

StJS complies with the requirements of the Data Protection Act 1998.

Accessibility

The StJS website has been designed to be as accessible as possible while still being visually appealing.

We have tried to minimise download times and where possible avoid the excessive use of graphics for information provision. Where images have been used Alt tags have been utilised so that pages can be viewed with images turned off or via a screen reader or similar device. Coding used in the site conforms to W3C standards for XHTML and CSS and this should help further in terms of accessibility via screen readers etc.

This site has been tested with the most commonly used browsers and has been coded to accommodate access through mobile platforms, as far as possible within the limits of the content management structural framework.

We have tried to adopt a simple and consistent approach to navigation, with some content being made available in a number of different areas on the site in order to ease access.
